[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

OFF FOR BOSTON. Grand Ovations to Blaine on His Journey to Boston.

[Copyright, 1888, by the California Associated Press.] NEW YORK, August 13th.—A great crowd assembled at the Grand Central Depot this morning to witness the departure of Blaine and party for Maine. Blaine left the hotel about 10:30 and rode to the depot accompanied by Walker Blaine and Dougherty of Tennessee, one of the Secretaries of the National Campaign Committee. The party arrived at the station a short time before 11 o'clock, at which hour the train started. As Blaine stepped from the carriage he was greeted with loud cheers, and was escorted through the crowd and waiting-room by through the crowd and waiting-room by through the crowd and waiting room by two policemen.

Biaine was met in the depot by ex-Collector Robertson and Chairman Pool of the Reception Committee. He entered a special car attached to the express, the name of the car being the "President." As the train moved out the crowd cheered. Blaine bowed acknowledgment from the rear platform of the car. This platform is very large, and able to accommodate thirty perlarge, and able to accommodate thirty persons, being used by the railroad President, this being his special car for the purpose of viewing the track.

at 12:30 P. M. to-morrow, and is due at 7:15 A GREETING AT STAMFORD.

BRIDGEPORT, August 13th.-When the Blaine train ran into Stamford it was greeted with cheers from 2,000 people.

Blaine said:

I think this large assembly quite beyond the power of my expression for the compliment they pay me as I journey homeward. In the brief moment of the train stopping I have only time to add to my thanks an admonition; that is, if Connecticut shall maintain her great prosperity; if she shall maintain her forward position among the industrial and prosperous communities of the United States, she must be up and doing. She must see to it that no harm shall come to the republic or herself by neglect of her Republican citzens. It is not improbable in the political contest now upon us that the post of honor and responsibility shall rest upon Connecticut. It is not improbable that the Presidential election of 1888 may be settled on the soil of your State. My request is that each and every one of you shall regard the task of carrying Connecticut for Harrison and Morton as imposed upon himself. Believing you are awake to your duty I shall proceed to Maine and ask her Republicans to show Connecticut the path in which she should walk. [Applause.] AT BRIDGEPORT ..

New Haven, (Conn.) August 13th.—At Bridgeport the assembly was larger than at Stamford. Blaine made a brief speech. A SPEECH AT MEEIDEN. MERIDEN, August 13th .- One t

as follows:

I beg to thank you all for this compliment in greeting me so cordially. I have time only to say that, important as the voice of Connecticut always has been, it is tenfold more important this year. If we can have every Republican voter in Connecticut fully comprehend and appreciate what the vote of this state may mean, I shall rest content with the result which your understanding will bring. Trusting that the votes of Novembor may chronicle a victory in Connecticut, and as a consequence a victory to the nation, I return your greeting with all the cordiality with which it has been tendered, AT HARTFORD

eling guest, who responded as follows:

Less than a fortnight ago I was in a country which, according to its area, is called the richest in the world-old England. A large num er of the counties in England have each a population greater than that of the whole State of Connecticut, but I wish I could compare the statistics of Connecticut with any county or of any community of 600,000 people in England. The comparison would give a sharp test by which the good people of Connecticut could determine the depressing effects of free trade upon the mass of laboring men. You are asked now to change the tariff system under which prosperity has been attained. The country wishes to hear your answer upon that point, and awaits to hear it with confidence.

ON MASSACHUSETTS SOIL.

ON MASSACHUSETTS SOIL. At Springfield the largest assemblage of the day was in waiting. Among those who boarded the train to meet Blaine were Mayor Mayward, ex-Governor Robinson and Elisha Morgan. Blaine was introduced GENTLEMEN: It would be sheer vanity in me to attribute the assemblage of this vast mass of Massachusetts voters to a desire to see me. I take i. rather as an index of the profound interest which you feel in the pending contest. In that worthy and patriotic purpose I am most heartily with you. I share your feeling, and I bid you God speed. Among the nation 1 policies which have strikingly advanced your State among the States in the Union, the policy of protection has been the chief. That policy is represented in this contest by Harrison and Morton. You should roll up a majority for Harrison and Morton of tens of thousands, and beyond that. In every practicable and proper beyond that. In every practicable and proper way you should help your neighbors in Con-

ENTHUSIASTIC WORKINGMEN. The next stopping ploce was at Wercester. Before the city itself was reached there were seen from the train throngs of workmen in numerous factories on either work and stood at the factory windows waiting for Blaine's train to pass. When they saw it they waved their hands and

When the depot at Worcester was reached and Blaine's figure was recognized on the rear platform of the train, the cheering was ociferous. Dr. Barden, of the Republican ate Committee of Massachusetts, per-rmed the ceremony of introduction. Mr.

I have been really embarassed the whole day by such demonstrations as this. I repeat here what I said in Springfield—that I am not vain enough to suppose that this vast assemblage is what I said in Springfield—that I am not vain enough to suppose that this vast assemblage is simply a personal compliment to me. It is rather, and far more largely, an exhibition of that deep sympathy which the Republicans in Massachusetts have in the pending national contest for Harrison and Morton. Massachusetts can do much in this contest, and much is expected of her. She can lead the way in a contest which shall restore the Republican party to national power and insure the permanency of a sound protection policy to the laborers of the United States Thanking you personally, gentlemen, for the kindness which the gathering of this vast multitude implies toward myself, which I fully reciprocate, I bid you God speed and farewell. [Loud and continued cheering.]

people gathered until 10,000 were about the hotel balcony. There was a band of music, fireworks and cheers.

When Mr. Blaine did appear he was escorted to the balcony, which he remarked he thought insecure to Dr. Burden, Henry C. Lodge, O. W. Beard and others. Mr. Blaine's appearance evoked tremendous cheers, which were renewed again and again. Mr. Blaine turned to Dr. Burden, and remarked of the balcony on which and remarked of the balcony on which they stood:

Dr. Burden reassured him, however, and after some little time it was again possible for Dr. Burden to make himself heard. While introducing Blaine he used among others these words: He (Blaine) comes among us to-night, not with the pomp and display of a General, but as a private soldier in the ranks, ready for orders, But our General (Harrison) will not allow him to remain long in the ranks. He will issue to him a commission as Commander-in-Chief of the Republican forces in the field.

Mr. Blaine then began an address, and Mr. Blaine then began an address, and spoke longer than at any time during the day. He was frequently interrupted with applause, for he stirred the large assemblage up to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. His voice grew stronger as he proceeded, and he addressed himself vigorously to a discussion of the great issue of the campaign. He concluded his remarks in these words:

If we have free trade the factories may not be closed, but if kept open will be run at half the present wages. This is the issue, which should be sent home to the Democratic party. They should be arraigned, as I arraign them, as conspirators against the welfare of the laboring men. [Cheers.] Let that be the issue, and the watch-word of Republicans, and defeat is impossible.

DAILY RECORD-UNION

.....AUGUST 14, 1888 BASEBALL TROUBLES.

It looks very much as if the forecas of the RECORD-Union made last year concerning the drift of the "national game," approaches the eve of fulfillment The criticism then made upon the game was that the evidence all indicated the danger of decadence of the athletic sport to the level of the show, the atmosphere of the gambling ring and the tactics of jockeying. Whoever has watched the Incendiary Fire at Fresno-Terrible Inprogress of the game for a year must have observed that it has suffered not only in conduct. The majority of the more noted while affording healthful recreation and agreeable entertainment. The scenes on the baseball ground on Sunday in San Francisco, where an umpire was mobbed and the game closed in a disgraceful riot, were the result, if we are to believe the local press, at least of grave suspicion of ball jockeying, trickery and dishonesty. Of course, back of any chicane and fraud, injustice and unfairness, was the bettor with his money. As one of the journals put it, "honest baseball received a serious set-back." It will be still more seriously harassed and cease to have public countenance if the gamblers are permitted to even touch its skirts. It is a degradation of the game that it is played by hired players. In the Grecian arena athletes contended for laurel wreaths and the honors of physical prowess. It is not reasonable to suppose that for any great length of time the American public will be content to smile upon muscular and agile contests between men, where the suspicion in the faintest degree attaches that there is jockeying or trickery. A strong effort has been made by the various leagues to prevent this stigma attaching, but as human nature is pretty much the same everywhere, and the gambler neves misses an opportunity to ply his vocation, it will prove a heroic undertaking to preserve the national athletic game from the taint of dishonesty. It is a bad sign for the game, as a San Francisco journal well says, when onlookers begin to ask each other "Is this fair ball?" "Was not the game | were made to enter several residences and thrown?" If the promoters of the game are to preserve it from rapid decline they must put all its exhibitions so far beyond the possibility of the charge of corruption, that the veriest tyro will see that the contests of even the employed players are sincere

We are very much inclined to believe that the Chinese question will be sooner and better settled if the treaty is rejected. We will then have application of curative rather than alleviating remedies for a social ill. Partisanship would lead Republicans to hope the official news of rejection will be delayed until it is too late to enact new measures this year, to fortify the present Restriction Act. But the interests of labor and civilization are altogether too important to excuse such a hope. It will therefore be the wish of all friends of American labor that the official news of rejection will come to hand sufficiently early to enable some of the amendatory measures to the present Restriction Acts to be taken up and considered in the present Congress.

A Stabbing Affray that is Likely to Have Pile Official is prepared only for Pile and Itching of the Private Parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by drug gists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cent a Fatal Result. Pendleton, August 13th.—The news comes that Mills Andrews, well known here, was stabbed fatally in Island City on Saturday night by a young man named Shaw. Andrews is the proprietor of a livery stable in Island City, and young Shaw was in his complex. Shaw was in his employ. The two had a lisagreement of some kind, which resulted in the discharge of Shaw. In settling up Andrews kept back a dollar of Shaw's vages, which naturally occasioned un imentary remarks on the part of the boy. Andrews then became enraged, and lapped the young fellow in the face, who etaliated by drawing a knife and plunging t into Andrews' back. The weapon sank eep, and struck an inch below the heart. Andrews was taken to La Grande for treatment, but at last accounts was bleeding profusely internally, and was not expected to live. Shaw is still at large.

-+CLEARANCESALE.+

Our Clearance Sale values are telling with wonderful effect. Yesterday, like preceding days, witnessed one continuous flow of trade. We are disposing of a vast quantity of Goods, and it is evident that the interest of the majority of buyers is centered here. We are not surprised at this. A sale of Summer Goods is what we are having, and we are bound to close them out by giving phenomenal bargains. No wonder that some of our competitors are seemingly making unusual efforts. All we ask is for a comparison of Goods and Prices. We cut the swath that others may follow. Notice the following:

The volcano which has thus broken into fatal activity is situated about four and a half miles (English) from the celebrated housand years, and as the old crater mus have been effectually blocked up, its re opening ought to have been attended by greater disturbances than the accounts thus greater disturbances than the accounts thus far received indicate. Moreover, the eruption appears to have taken place from the smaller of the two Bandai peaks (Sho-Bandaizan.) It is therefore conjectured that the outburst found a vent through one of the hot springs. In addition to the direct effects of the eruption, disaster was caused by the damming of the Okawa river, and the conse-quent inundation of a village called Hibara, situated on its bank. We read further that at 9:20 o'clock on the same day—that is to say, about an hour and a half after the eruption at Bandaizan—a severe shock of earthquake was felt at Asama-yama, distant over a hundred miles from Bandaizan, accompanied by an appalling noise. The earth trembled violently within a circle of fifteen miles radius from the mounain-to Warratoze on the south, Usui-toge on the north and Mikuni-toge on the vest—and the inhabitants believed their ast day had come.
